SURETY & POLITICAL RISK

Today's geopolitical landscape becomes increasingly ambiguous and the African continent is not spared: Zimbabwean riots, terrorist attacks in Nairobi; Islamist insurgencies in Mozambique, and election violence in Malawi; South Africa and Tanzania to name a few. Even seemingly tranquil countries and regions can erupt quickly, and the nature of events is becoming increasingly unpredictable as they are fuelled by social media. With terrorist acts and political violence seemingly never out of the news for very long, companies are driven to seek ways to protect their business interests.
